8. Tasks of Working Groups (WG)

WG 1 - TRAINING AND CME (Chair: Nikki Cordell, members: Kari Reijula, Milan Tuček, Ivo Iavicoli, Tor Erik Danielsen, Marek Varga)

1. The success of the training group, being the culmination of some ten years work to complete the project to produce the Assessment Tool for Occupational Medicine (ATOM), was acknowledged by the UEMS Section at the Dresden meeting, and in particular the success in the training documents being approved in April 2013 by the Council of the UEMS in Brussels. This work provides the basis for accreditation for occupational physicians across Europe. The OM Section Chairman agreed that the training group should take forward the proposal for funding to convert the portfolio into an e-portfolio. The Portuguese representative noted that there were some references to the situation in the UK; having been agreed by central UEMS the Chairman recommended that any adjustments could be made in the process of implementation, and any uncertainties over the meaning of any part of the portfolio should be addressed to Nikki Cordell as the lead for the training group.
2. The members of the UEMS OM Section were asked to undertake the following:
  - a. To examine the three curriculum documents agreed by the EUMS Council, and noting that there will inevitably need to be adjustment to reflect legislation and other factors in each nation, to engage with colleagues and the relevant authorities in their nations to implement these. The aim of this work, being the culmination of the ATOM work, is that the standard of training and competence of OM specialists in each European nation is sufficient to allow any specialist in OM within the EU to work in any other EU nation as a specialist in OM. The documents may be accessed at the following links and all our members are asked to present the document and the links to the document to their National bodies responsible for postgraduate training in occupational medicine:

b. To suggest how funding might be made available to support the conversion of the ATOM portfolio (Annex 2 of the above links) into an e-portfolio for the use of doctors undertaking specialist training in each nation.

c. To further our understanding of the delivery of OH services across Europe, to feed back to Nikki Cordell on the current structure of OM in their nation, including the role of specialist occupational physicians, doctors who are not OM specialists but with a special interest in OM, other doctors providing OM services but without qualifications in OM, and other health professionals providing OH services such as nurses.

d. That in those nations where non-specialist doctors provide OM services, whether the members of the group feel there is a requirement for minimal training and competence standards that might be adopted across Europe through UEMS.
